Screenshot Font Management Software The primary use of a font management solution is to organize and use all installed fonts on your PC. You should be able to easily identify the fonts you have installed, their size and where they are installed. An excellent font manager allows you to search for fonts, retrieve them from a USB drive, copy them to another computer or send them via email. Extensis Suitcase Fusion is a font management application designed to help organize your font files. It adds a whole new dimension to font management; it provides the ability to run on multiple computers and keep all of your fonts under one management. It manages fonts on several PCs with Windows, Macintosh and Linux operating systems, and it has an intuitive graphical user interface (GUI) and a powerful, yet easy to use command line interface (CLI). Its dynamic font database allows for automatic updates of font information. Suitcase Fusion's font manager can add a whole new dimension to the task of font management. It uses a full-featured Dynamic Font Database (DFD) which is completely dynamic in that it is updated automatically to keep up with all changes that occur in your collection of fonts. This eliminates the need to bother with manual updates and helps to keep your font files organized. Suitcase Fusion stores all font files in a single database. A separate folder is used to store all of the font files you have selected. The single database makes it easy to search and retrieve the fonts and to organize your entire collection. You can add and remove fonts directly from the folder, or from the interface and customize the order of the fonts in the folder to suit your preferences. While Suitcase Fusion's database works for all fonts, if you have fonts that don't support DFD, they are shown and sorted in a simpler, much smaller local font file. You can't import or export your fonts with this local file, but it's perfect for displaying only a few fonts on your screen. This is useful if you have a smaller set of fonts that are displayed on-screen or on a web page. Suitcase Fusion requires no additional hardware or software to run. It is a true multi-platform font management application. Suitcase Fusion Features Font management and font storage: The suite provides a full feature Dynamic Font Database (DFD), including an easy to use and intuitive Graphical User Interface (GUI) and a powerful Command Line Interface (CLI).
